New Tundra Dynamics in Response to Climate Change

Neil Moore
Noticeable Changes
Methods

- Document timing of snow geese arrival and nesting
- Calculate gosling survival and monitor food choices
- Record predation events using camera traps and direct observations
Climate change in one area can drastically impact distant locations.

Climate change can and is happening at a rapid pace.

Animals and ecosystems may try to respond and adapt, but will it be fast enough?